“ One of my most recent and favorite memories with Jason is when we went camping. Jason, my brother Brendan, and myself went down to a lake near our camp sight and he taught us how to fish properly. First time doing it on my own and it really felt like a nice father son moment. Even though he wasn't my father in blood I will always hold the things he taught me and showed me threw out my time with him. He was a incredible father figure and he will never be forgotten... Thank you for everything Jason I love you <3

“ The very 1st day I had with Jason was at a movie. It was The Dark Knight rises. It was during the day and we sat in the very back row. I think there was definitely more kissing there was watching. And now he waits. And now we wait. For another glimpse, another touch, another laugh... Me? I wait for another first kiss 💋 I'LL ONLY EVER BELONG TO HIM
