“ Pete would stop in at Lechuga's for a few beers over the years that I worked there. Always happy and joking with me. I was blessed to have met him.

“ When we first moved into our former home on 28th, the first neighbor to greet us was Pete. “Hey come on over for a bud. “. That was the start of a “tradition” that lasted until he moved downtown. I know he was not happy about moving out of the neighborhood , but he remained “Pete” throughout. It did not take his brother Tony and I long to complete the move, he didn't have much. I have so many wonderful memories of this special man. He was always willing to give a hand, and always knew someone that could complete work on our home, from tree removal to roofing. I hope the “girls” remember the ball games in the front yard. Pete sitting on the porch cheering his girls on and harassing Althea, Cindy and I. We both attempted to stop a thief who had broke into a neighbor's house. We met in the middle of the alley, close to colliding, as the thief made good his escape. Those that knew him know exactly what he said, "we need dr. bud. " He was a loving and caring man. I wanted to attend his memorial, but it is the one day that week I have to work. So that afternoon I ' ll be sitting on my front porch, toasting Pete, as he looks down on us from heaven,s front porch. Tim
